++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Strong winds and heavy rain for most today.

Today:
A widely dry, bright start, but cloud thickening during the morning to bring persistent and at times heavy rain by lunchtime, this continuing through the afternoon. Winds becoming strong with gales or severe gales possible near coasts after midday. Maximum temperature 18 deg C (64 deg F).

Tonight:
Heavy rain and strong winds easing through the evening to become largely dry with clear periods. Some rain perhaps fringing into Kent and East Sussex later in the night. Minimum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Sunday:
Early rain soon clearing the far southeast to leave a brighter, but rather breezy day. Most parts staying dry, though the odd afternoon shower is possible. Maximum temperature 17 deg C (63 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Sunshine and showers through Monday, heavy at times and perhaps thundery. Likely becoming wet and windy again on Tuesday, then an improving picture Wednesday as rain and strong winds ease.
